

Behavior Expectation Policy

At Museum Discovery Camp, we have high expectations for campers' ability to monitor their own behavior and strive to keep disciplinary actions to a minimum. We ask all campers to follow our 3 Museum Discovery Camp rules at all times.

- 1 - Respect The Reading Public Museum. Treat our facilities, exhibits, artifacts, supplies, and equipment with care; clean up after yourself. Follow The Museum Rules.	- 2 - Respect Your Fellow Campers. Be kind, use polite and respectful language, share, take turns, and keep all body parts outside of others personal space.	- 3 - Respect Your Counselors (including all camp and Museum staff and volunteers) . Listen and then follow instructions, use polite and respectful language, stay with your class at all times.

If the severity of the behavior is deemed beyond disciplinary action, that camper will immediately be asked not to return to camp for the remainder of the season (no refund). For example, this could be considered if the camper inflicts severe physical injury to another camper or themselves, or has demonstrated that they are a danger to other campers or to themselves

If the camper is scheduled for multiple weeks of camp and if they cannot control themselves after two weeks of discipline, they will be asked not to return to camp for the remainder of the season with no refunds
